Gallery NuLu is proud to announce the opening of Vadis Turner's first Louisville exhibition!

Opening: Friday, October 5th, 2007
Through: November 21st, 2007

Vadis Turner brings her tongue-in-cheek take on tradition versus modernity to Louisville from New York City.

Many traditional forms of craft have been replaced with advancements in technology, entertainment and shifts in cultural priorities. Vadis Turner transforms concepts and materials that are traditionally emblematic of women into objects that represent how we spend our time and define our values.

A Nashville native, Ms. Turner studied at Boston University, earning her BFA and MFA and graduating with honors in 2000.

Boasting an impressive exhibition catalog, Turner has shown in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Miami, Boston, and Nashville, as well as abroad, in Tokyo, the Czech Republic, as well as Paris' Centre Georges Pompidou and Reflex Gallery.

"It is hard to miss... Vadis Turner's eye-fooling collection of confection and cupcakes made of colored cloth and assorted beauty products. They are very cleverly done." (Benjamin Genocchio, The New York Times, April 2007)

"What gives substance to her art, however, is the tension it sets up between old-timey, time-intensive crafts associated with women- which she celebrates – and references to the modern, time-crunched, consumer oriented world." (Ben Davis, Retro Activities, artnet.com)

This show was made possible through collaboration with New York's Vanina Holasek Gallery. Please join us to celebrate and enjoy Vadis Turner's first Louisville exhibition!
